Historical Note

The Second New Hampshire Turnpike was chartered in December 1799 originally connecting Amherst to Lottery Bridge in Claremont. Becoming one of the earliest "straight line" turnpikes in the country (very controversial at the time!) it eventually connected Boston to Northern Vermont and Montreal. This building, built in 1800 by John Gibson became the infamous Gibson Tavern, a frequent first night stagecoach layover for weary travelers. Also on this site are the remains of a stone foundation of one of the earliest "toll houses" (can be seen in the trees directly across from our swimming pool) established along the "Turnpike", hence the name Toll Booth Tavern!
